DELICARDO Foodcard is a proud recipient of the *aha!*award 2010 from the Swiss Allergy, Skin and Asthma Centre.

Following up on the success of being awarded the ECARF Quality Seal for products that help give back quality of life despite allergies by the European Centre for Allergy Research Foundation and the positive response to the DELICARDO Foodcard Customer Survey*, DELICARDO Foodcard has received the *aha!*award 2010 from the Swiss Allergy, Skin and Asthma Centre.

With the *aha!*award a jury of doctors, members of aha! and representatives of the Swiss Ministry of Health recognize outstanding achievements and practical, innovative projects of high value for allergy affected. Simone Graebner, the CEO and founder of ENOMIS GmbH, developer of DELICARDO Foodcards, was in Bern to receive the prize. "I am very proud to receive this award and look forward to helping more allergy sufferers out there" said Simone Graebner in Bern. "Our aim is to improve the quality of life of those with adverse food reactions by making eating out and travelling easier and enjoyable again and receiving this award shows us that we are on the right track".

The other recipients of the 2010 *aha!*award were Minca Huber, writer of a witty, insightful book for children about a young girl who suffers from neurodermatitis titled Carmelitta Badhösi and a special mention was given to Christian Bohren for his outstanding contributions to the fight against the invasive, highly allergenic ambrosia plant.

ENOMIS GmbH, a Berlin based start-up, was launched in 2009 under the motto 'Quality of life despite allergies and intolerances' and produces lifestyle products for sufferers of adverse food reactions and people with restrictive diets. The first such product is the DELICARDO Foodcard. The size of a business card, DELICARDO Foodcards are made to be handed to a waiter or chef while placing an order at a restaurant while at home or abroad, making life easier for the allergy and food intolerance afflicted and hotel and gastronomy staff. The cards cover the usual standard allergies and intolerances as a pre-made card in the online catalogue or can also be made to include a combination of various adverse food reactions online in a range of languages in the online configurator.
